

Your right to play matters

Article 31 of the Rights of the Child says:

You have the right to play and relax by doing things like sport, music and drama.

This means that children have the right to have fun in the way they want to, whether by playing sports, watching films, or something else entirely. They have the right to rest, too. Being able to relax and unwind in the way they want to is vital to a child's health and happiness, and to making sure they are as fulfilled as they can be.

So this Christmas time there will be no homework but you may want to enjoy your right to relax and play by:

- Spending time with friends and family
- Eating food that you love
- Making somebody laugh or smile
- Doing something for someone else
- Enjoying a Christmas story
- Watching a Christmas film
- Playing a board game

And finally...

Come back to school in 2018 relaxed and ready to learn!
Have a wonderful Christmas and we will see you in the
New Year
